The story was made up while he was in Worcester, the husband testified before Superior Court Justice Coleman in New York, and had a known of it he would have forbidden it.

When he returned after a business trip to Worcester last April he asked his wife why it was he had been in the city. She said she had gone on a motor trip to Boston, he testified. He was not satisfied and made inquiries. "These inquiries," he said, developed that the "girl friend" was none other than Mrs. DeWitt.

This is the story of a "woman with a past"—Charlotte Johnson, who was juggling in the scales of justice today against the bewildered and guileless riches of Peggy Huggins Joyce.

She was named by Peggy in her divorce action and was threatened with being dragged into court to have her past revealed.

HER HUSBAND LOYAL.

She spoke to an international news service correspondent who found her a little mid-Western town where she has sought a new life with her husband. She knows the history of her relations with Joyce.

His mind, dear, I'll stand by you. It won't be long before this will be all over and we can begin all over again. We did it once. We can do it again.

But, honey, it is of you I am thinking, she replied.

"That's what I always said," said the husband. "But didn't I say for nothing, for when you were married? And didn't I know every woman who smiled away, and said to the man who is trying to force me to do what I don't want to do, that I will fight to prove through me? I won't let my husband drive me long."

WILL FIGHT, SHE SAYS.

"The only thing I can imagine she wants to use me for is to show that she kept company with other women before she married him."

"That would put me in a terrible light," she said. "I will not let my name be put in that light for anything."

MYSTERY MAN SACCO TRIAL

Defence Asks That Spectator Taken From Corridor Be "Marked as Exhibit"

Fifteen more Boston witnesses remained to testify when the murder trial of Nicola Barzani and Bartolomeo Vanzetti resumed at Dedham today. These included automobile and gun experts.

District Attorney Katzman announced that he expected to complete the trial of the case next Tuesday or Wednesday.

Austin Cole, street car conductor, who identified the defendants as the men who rode in his car on the night of the murder, was recalled by the defence for one question.

The point where the defendant heard his car was about a mile from the place where the "trucker automobile" was found.

After a short delay, a witness asked an Italian to step forward from the corridor. Cole said he did not know the man. The district attorney asked that the Italian be "marked for identification" as an exhibit.

Thayer said the man might object to being marked. The court then asked the matter by saying the man could be marked as a witness and not as an exhibit.

Pellegrino Michael J. Connolly of Brockton, whose testimony was taken yesterday, said that Vanzetti put his hand to his forehead and said "I don't know" at the time of arrest, was recalled by the defence.

The 32-calibre automatic gun, alleged to have been taken from Sacco at the time of his arrest, was introduced as an exhibit, following objection by the defence.

COLD CHASER—Mrs. Edith T. Thompson of Fresno, Cal., who "put over" the drive for $200,000 in aid of the Anti-Tuberculous Fund in California. (Int.)

BOUND FOR BELGIUM? Robert P. Skinner of Ohio, U. S. Consul-General at London, who, according to the dispatchers, will succeed Whitlock as Ambassador (Key.)

FLAMING HORROR—The big gasoline tank on the right exploded just after this photo was taken, killing 13 men and injuring scores of others, at Salt Lake city. Lightning struck the big container in flames in the rear. Although their lives were threatened every minute, flames stuck to post. Insert shows the removal of the dead. (U. & U.)

SHOO FLY, MY DEAR! The horrid of censor, he just won't and made Grace McCrea's Brooklyn classical dancer, take her one-piece are suit and leave Manhattan Beach instantly. (U. & U.)

LOOKS NATURAL—British soldier smashing the lock to get at the stationery office in the Dublin Customs House just after the big fire. These typical Crowa warriors are excellent smashers, as Irish mothers and children have good cause to know. (W. W.)

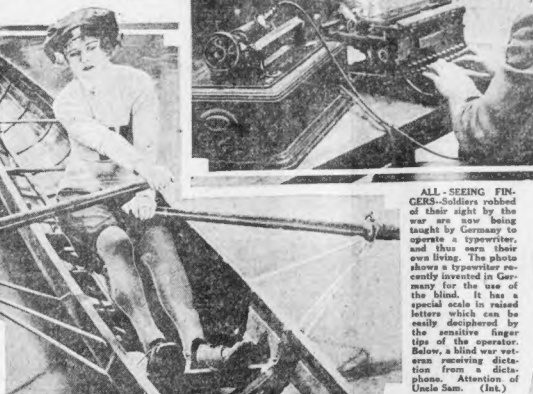

ALL-SEEING FINGERS—Soldiers robbed of their sight by the war are now being taught by Germany to operate a typewriter, and thus earn their own living. The photo shows a typewriter recently invented in Germany for the use of the blind. It has a special scale in raised letters which can be easily deciphered by the sensitive finger tips of the operator. Below, a blind war veteran receiving dictation from a dictaphone. Attention of Uncle Sam. (Int.)

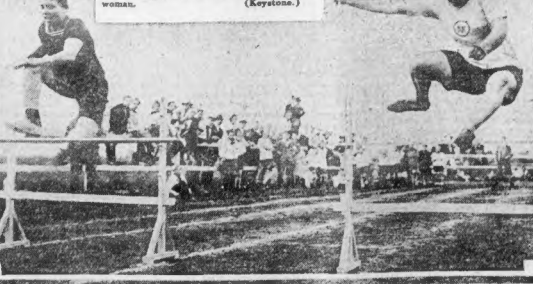

PETER PAN IN CAP AND CROWN—Maude Adams put aside her stage simiery for the nonce to journey up to Schenectady, N. Y., where the conservative Union College conferred on her the degree of Master of Arts. (U. & U.)

HOW TIME FLIES! These Dutch maidens, or rather their counterparts, came over to the only country in about 1600. They are Mrs. Mahbott and Miss Edna Austin, who are taking a prominent part in the Pilgrim tercentenary celebration at Plymouth. The costumes are typical of the background and atmosphere of the pageant.

ALL ALONE—Wanda Hawley, when she isn't ramping some poor chap all over the place in the movies, likes rowing. It looks mighty lonesome, though. The little actress has developed herself into a skilled row-woman. (Keystone.)

LEAPING FRAULEINS—What these sturdy German girls lack in beauty they make up for in rugged health and vitality. Both ran the short hurdles nearly as fast as the cleverest male athletes. Fraulein Hintz, left, won the race after a thrilling dash near the tape at the tournament in Berlin Stadium. The meet, which was for women only, attracted one of the largest throngs that has ever attended an event of this sort in the German city. (W. W.)

ALWAYS WELCOME—Paris is sending its youngest movie star, Regine Danien, to America, perhaps to a new Jackie Coogan that he isn't the only kid actor. (K. & H.)

CHEAP—But smart, too, were the $4 gowns made by Philadelphia high school girls for their fashion show. Joan Gardiner in $7 organdie outfit, hat and all. (U. & U.)

FEATHERS ON THE MOVE—Straight from the Rue de la Paix, Paris, comes this latest fad in foot-wear—leather shoes. The vamp is covered with black and blue breast feathers of Japanese blackbird with spray of paradise. Price? The space isn't large enough to tell you. (U. & U.)

Fresh From Paris

PARIS, France.
R. A. N. D. E. and other of the smart couturiers are reviving fringes as a means of enhancing the slender silhouette—a little longer than the fringe we discarded
a year ago, perhaps, but otherwise the same. At the left it adds length
and grace to the skirt of a crepe
marocain dinner gown, and it also adds an accent to the twisted sil-cord girdle at the low waistline. The gown is black, for in this color the Parisian knows she looks her ravishing best, while out of courtney to the modern fringes and girles are of brilliant copper color.

Carpentier Never Fights Twice Alike

Are Fighters Nowadays Better Than Old-Timers?

By TAD

The writer of the following letter doesn't insist that the boxing scene has gone back. He simply asks you to think it over.

With all this talk about the big fight to read lately I often wonder what must have happened about the fighters of a few years ago to make them so different from the fighters of today.

MY BABIES WERE BROUGHT UP ON FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE

"My three children owe their health to Father John's Medicine," said Mrs. Clara Weston of Boston. "The oldest one took it after she had pneumonia and it did so much for her that I have given it to the other two from infancy. I am sure there are no healthier children than my three." Father John's Medicine is the greatest body builder because it is all pure food.

Mothers give Father John's Medicine for Body Building and Throat Troubles. It is safe. No Drugs.
